This month we will be talking about all things social emotional. We will be talk about our feelings, how our bodies feel when we experience different emotions, and learn more about each other. Ms. Steph and I believe this is such a wonderful month to talk more about what we are thankful for and what matters the most to us. We see it every day the bonds these children have made with their classmates and we can't wait to work on building those relationships even more. If there are any family traditions your family celebrates please let us know we love to incorporate into our classroom this month!

OUR LEARNING

This month we will be focusing on self-confidence. Day to day, we will keep on encouraging them to explore new toys and being independent.

HOME CONNECTION

At home, while reading a book talk about what is going on and identifying what they are feeling.
